TYPES OF LEAVE

ANNUAL LEAVE:

Objective

Annual leave is a key benefit essential to take care of employees' personal & family needs. It plays a vital role in rejuvenating the energy of the employee from time to time. In order to promote better work-life balance, we encourage all employees to avail their Annual Leave.

Eligibility

All India based employees of the company are eligible for annual leave.

Policy and Entitlement

- Employees earn 21 days of annual leave during each year of service, where year is defined as Calendar year (January to December) for all the employees.
- Employees based in Pondicherry and Kotdwar are entitled to 28 days of annual Leave
- Annual Leave is earned on a day to day basis. Employees do not earn annual leave for the days when they are availing any leave other than Annual Leave, Sick Leave, Maternity Leave & Transfer Leave e.g. when an employee is on Loss of Pay Leave, he does not earn annual leave for the period that he is on loss of pay leave. The number of leave days that an employee can avail is exclusive of official and weekly holidays.
- New joinees will have an opening balance of 5 days which is leave accumulation for first 3 months from the date of joining. Thereafter the actual accumulation of leave will commence from the fourth month onwards. Refer example below in Table 1.1 for details.
- New joinees who join in the month from October to December will not have any leave lapse in the current year of joining.
 - The leaves earned for the first 3 months would be accounted for while calculating of the total leave balance along with next year's leave earned. The leave lapse rule will apply on the total leave balance (AL earned + AL carried forward from the joining year). This calculation is applicable for all those employees whose date of joining is between October to December. (E.g Rajesh joined in Oct 2011. He has 5 leaves as opening balance. As of Jan 2012, all 5 leaves get carried forwarded considering Rajesh has not availed any leave. Rajesh doesn't avail any leave in 2012 as well. In Dec 2012, the leave lapse rule shall apply to 21 days (earned in 2012) + 5 days (earned in 2011) = 26 days. Total of 16(13+3) days shall lapse by the end of Dec 2012.)
- Employees can avail up to -5 days of advance leave. In case of personal reasons (like critical medical condition, self-marriage, death in the family or hospitalization), advance leave up to maximum 25 days can be availed post TED approval.
- Annual leave balance is adjusted every yearend on 31 December. Out of 21 days earned in a year, 13 Days mandatorily need to be availed, else they will lapse and remaining 8 will get carry forwarded(61.90% of the leaves earned in a year need to be mandatorily availed, else will lapse and rest 38.09% will get carry forwarded if not availed) for all confirmed as well as probationer employees.
- If Annual Leave is applied for next calendar year then it may get cancelled after the yearend leave balance adjustment even though it may have got approved earlier. This will happen because the leave applied is outside the rules/ guidelines of the policy. For ex, if your advance leave taken is beyond a leave balance of -30 after the year end adjustment, the leave applied for in next calendar year will be cancelled.
- For the purpose of leave encashment, the annual leave is rounded off to the nearest whole number

Employee who goes Onsite

- If an employee is on Short term travel to Onsite then OOD should be applied so that the employee continues to accrue leave. If an employee has gone Onsite on long term assignment then he will stop earning offshore leave.
- If the employee returns to India after 6 months, on completion of 6 months, he/she will receive an email from myWipro informing him to en-cash the leaves balance onsite. On receiving this email, the employee is required to contact Wivodus Geo for further information.
- However, if the employee does not return within 6 months, the leave for the complete period he/she is based Onsite is credited to the onsite leave eligibility. The India leave balance stands still till he returns back to India / separates from the company. However unused leaves earned in India (during the year employee went onsite) will be adjusted towards year end using the standard lapse-carry forward formula.
- Refer example in Table 1.2 for illustration on calculation of leave at the time of joining.
- Annual Leaves earned in India cannot be transferred to any other country or encashed until separation or retirement. Encashment in such cases will be at the last drawn salary in India as per the encashment formula.

The above is not applicable to countries where leave accrual/ entitlement begins from day 1 of travel (example, US & Australia). Please refer to the respective country leave policy to get clarity on conversion of India Leave to Onsite Leave.

Policies for respective countries will supersede at any point of time.

Accumulation

Every year a minimum number of days of leave have to be mandatorily availed. This mandatory leave number is proportionately computed based on the number of leaves you earn in the year. For 21 leave days earned, 13 days (i.e. 61.90%) of leaves earned are mandatory to be availed and 8 days (i.e.38.09%) of leaves earned can be carried forward to next year. If an employee does not avail the mandatory leave, they will lapse and will not be carried forward. For probationers, the mandatory leave requirement is applicable for leave year from date of joining.

If an employee has a negative opening balance, during year end reconciliation and leave that needs to be lapse will be adjusted from the negative opening balance of the year, only the remaining leave will lapse. Refer example in Table 1.3 of computation of number of leaves lapsed in case of an employee with negative opening balance.

All employees can accumulate a maximum annual leave of 45 days. Total number of leaves cannot be accumulated beyond 45 days. Leave earned after reaching 45 days of accumulation will lapse if not availed.

Employees, who had an opening balance of over 45 days as on Jan 1 2004, please note that the opening balance will remain unchanged if all current year's annual leave are utilized. However, if the employee avails more than annual entitlement of 21 days, the annual accumulation limit would get revised to the new balance. For those who have accumulated less than 45 days Annual leave as on Jan 1, 2004 the maximum annual leave that can be carried forward would remain the same as per the existing policy (i.e. 38.09% of earned leave) but subject to a maximum accumulation of 45 days. Year-end adjustment and calculation of Annual Leave accumulation will be done on December 31.

Encashment

- Employees would be eligible to en-cash their accumulated leave only at the time of retirement or separation.
- In the first 3 months of joining if any probationer is separating from the company then probationer's leave will be calculated based on the actual number of leaves earned (pro-rated basis) and not on the number of earned leave days shown in the leave balance (which may be 5 days by default for all probationers for first 3 months).

- Annual leave encashment is calculated on the basis of cash salary.
 - For employees in Career Group A1, A2, A3, B1, B2, B3 & Team Rainbow, Leave encashment will be calculated on monthly salary (excludes QPLC, Any variable pay, LTA, Medical, PF, Pension, Gratuity, Additional allowance) and 90% of WBP will be considered for leave encashment calculation. The formula for leave encashment is : (No. of Days) * (Basic + Commutation Allowance + HRA + 90% WBP for 1 month) / 30
 - For employees in Group C1, C2, D1 & D2, E basic salary and 75% of WBP will be considered for leave encashment calculation. This is applicable irrespective of whether you avail the Company Car and/or Company Leased Accommodation. The formula for leave encashment is (No. of Days) * (Basic + *Special Allowance + 75% WBP for 1 month) / 30 . In case of employee having company car as per the new car policy, encashment formula would be : (No. of Days) * (Basic + 75% (WBP + *Special Allowance + Provision for car for 1 month)) / 30
- *Special Allowance is included if it is reflecting in stack
- Encashment of leave on separation due to retirement is non-taxable up to an amount of Rs. 3,00,000/-
- Leave encashment amount is taxable for those who leave before retirement i.e. before the age of 58.
- Actual amount is paid in the Final settlement as Leave Encashment.
